

Bedfordshire, Luton and Milton Keynes Integrated Care System Masterclass

Learning from New Models of Care and Primary Care Home

4 October, 13.00 – 16.00 The Rufus Centre, Flitwick, MK45 1AH

A masterclass for clinical and managerial staff working across our 15 health and social care partners to jointly explore what we can learn from emerging new models of care and how we can apply this to our local integrated system development. Hear about local approaches for supporting our Primary Care Home Model and how working with national partners within NHS England and the National Association of Primary Care helps us to deliver sustainable change. Applicable to all staff commissioning or providing health and social care who are influencing and leading service and system transformation.

- Sessions with NHS England's Systems Transformation Group and the National Association of Primary Care
- Facilitated breakouts covering the challenges and opportunities arising from development and implementation of New Models of Care.

Free Event with refreshments

Guest speakers:

Dan Northam Jones

Dan is an Assistant Director at NHS England, leading work to design and implement systems that integrate the planning and delivery of health and care services. He previously worked at Harvard Medical School as a Harkness Fellow; in the Department of Health as a Ministerial Advisor; in Cabinet Office as an advisor on health and public services; and in a consulting firm.

Faye Sims

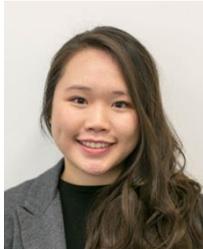

Faye currently works in the Primary Care project of the System Transformation Group in NHS England working alongside ICSs in developing their Primary care Networks. Prior to this Faye led the Enhanced Health in Care Homes Care Model as part of the national New Care Models Programme.

Faye joined NCM after leading the Prime Minister's General Practice Access Programme, piloting ways in which patients could gain smoother access to appointments with their practice. Prior to this Faye worked on the establishment of NHS England and before that was a Department of Health employee.

Cassandra Yong

Cassandra is a Specialist Advisor for NHS England. She works in the System Transformation Group, supporting the formation of ICSs, and is specifically focused on Population Health Management.

Clare Simpson - Primary Care Home, Workforce Lead

Clare is a senior HR and OD consultant who has been working in the health and care system for over 15 years and has been the workforce lead for the Primary Care Home (PCH) new model of care since January 2017. She also worked with the Workforce Redesign Team in the New Care Models Programme in NHS England until the end of last year.

Clare provides expert support and advice to senior leaders to enable them to deliver their organisational goals. She is a qualified executive coach who supports execs to develop the necessary skills and behaviours to achieve their career goals and identify and resolve barriers to effective performance. Clare has been working successfully in the public and private sectors for the last 25 years. Prior to setting up her consultancy business, Clare held a number of HR Director roles with different companies in the private sector. She is a Chartered Member of CIPD, and qualified to Level B Occupational Training and uses a number of psychometric tests to inform individual assessments and development plans, job analysis and job evaluation.

Johnny Marshall

Johnny is a GP at Westongrove Partnership and a highly experienced NHS leader. He is accomplished at communicating one to one, facilitating small groups, giving key notes at national conferences or appearing on national media.

Johnny has a reputation as being able to forge strong effective partnerships, facilitating others in reaching consensus and being as interested in the development of others, through a balance of challenge and support, as he is in continually improving his own performance.

Johnny is an influential advocate of adopting a population health perspective to health and care services, none more so than through the Primary Care Home.
